Dear NHS,

I am writing to you because I simply can't thank you enough for all you are doing for the people of this country. Every day you are caring for the patients with Covid 19, even though you know that you could end up catching it too. I know that must all be so tired and yet you keep going. I would like to be able to tell you how grateful I am for all your hard work and caring.

Every Thursday I go out with my family to clap for you, but we really ought to clap every single day, because every day you are putting your lives in danger to care for the people with Covid 19.

I will never forget the time of the Coronavirus and I shall never forget the brave works of the NHS, who are the country's true heroes.

Yours sincerely,

Joanna Dougan
